

ABOUT THE CONFERENCE

Join our expert presenters to gain fresh perspectives and new tools to enhance your professional work with victims of intimate partner violence (IPV).

Counselors, social workers, and substance abuse professionals at all levels of experience and licensures are welcome.

Upon completion of the conference, participants will be able to:

- Compare traditional psychotherapy and feminist theories in work with victims of IPV.
- Identify how trauma and mental illness can have reinforcing effects on each other.
- Describe psychological components of firearm-involved domestic violence, violence, and suicide.
- Define how substance abuse complicates the process of healing from an abusive relationship.
- Name several factors that impact a client's disclosure of IPV and interventions therapists can use to assist them.

Continuing Education Hours

For NJ Social Workers: Please contact us for information on CE credit for this conference

For Licensed Counselors: Jersey Battered Women's Service has been approved by NBCC as an Approved Continuing Education Provider, ACEP No. 5875. Programs that do not qualify for NBCC credit are clearly identified. JBWS is solely responsible for all aspects of the program.

ABOUT THE PRESENTERS

ELAINE EDELMAN, PHD, LCSW

Dr. Edelman is a clinical social worker who began her career over thirty years ago working with children and families at risk due to mental illness, and abuse and neglect issues. She has since worked at every level of care including inpatient and outpatient treatment, partial hospitalization, outpatient mental health, residential services and private practice. She has extensive experience working with adult survivors of abuse and neglect and borderline pathology, and is currently working with clients struggling with homelessness, substance abuse and psychiatric illness.

GIANNI PIRELLI, PHD, LLC

Dr. Pirelli is a Licensed Psychologist in New Jersey and New York. He leads a group practice, Pirelli Clinical and Forensic Psychology, LLC, which provides a wide range of clinical and clinical-forensic evaluation and therapy services (www.gpirelli.com). Dr. Pirelli is on the editorial board for the leading forensic psychology journal, Law and Human Behavior, as well as for the state journal, the New Jersey Psychologist, among others. He has also taught over 40 post-doctoral, graduate, and undergraduate courses.

TAMU KING, MSCP

Ms. King is the Director of Social Justice Programming at the Women's Center in Linwood, NJ; a therapist, specializing in domestic violence and sexual assault; and an instructor with the Stockton Partnership where she teaches on Childhood Sexual Abuse, Domestic Violence and Substance Abuse. She is the author of Finally Free, a book about her personal struggles around domestic violence, sexual abuse, and eating disorders.

HARRIET NEWMAN, M.ED., LPC

Ms. Newman has a private practice in Bloomfield, NJ for individuals, couples and families. Prior to her practice, she was a clinician at Kinderkamack Counseling in Montvale, NJ. Ms. Newman facilitated groups for male perpetrators of domestic abuse and women who have used force through the Jersey Center for Non-Violence, a program of JBWS. She received her M.Ed. in Professional Counseling from William Paterson University. She is a LPC in NJ and a National Certified Counselor.

JANIS FALVEY, LPC

Ms. Falvey is a licensed professional counselor with over thirty years experience in the field of sexual assault, domestic abuse and PTSD. She has a private practice in Madison, NJ working with adolescents and adults impacted by family trauma, as well as collaborative work with forensic professionals dealing with high conflict divorce families. She is also a part time instructor at Rutgers School of Social Work in their continuing education department, teaching courses on personality disorders, and treatment of mood disorders for teens and adults.

JANE SHIVAS, LCSW

Jane Baldwin Shivas is a licensed clinical social worker with over 35 years of experience in domestic violence program development and implementation. Over 31 years, Jane Shivas helped to transform Jersey Battered Women's Service from a small emergency shelter in the early 80's to the comprehensive domestic violence organization that it is today. She has spent her career creating and leading a coordinated community response to domestic violence on state and local levels.
